Sue Lezon: Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Teaching

- Now an associate professor of art, Lezon joined the SUNY Plattsburgh faculty as an adjunct in 1994. Since then, she has come to be the college’s only full-time faculty member in photography, incorporating her extensive experience in that field into several courses each semester. Student opinion surveys, spanning five semesters of these courses, show that the vast majority rate her teaching as excellent in every category. They find her demanding and honest in her critical evaluation of their work, yet warm, respectful and inspiring.
Dr. Chris Martine: Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Teaching

- Since Martine arrived on campus in 2006, the associate professor of biological sciences has taken part in a number of research initiatives — publishing seven peer-reviewed articles, a technical report and two field guides; participating in a dozen scholarly conferences; and receiving a grant from the Nature Conservancy. In all of this work, Martine has fostered the active involvement of students. As a result, six of his students have now received the Botanical Society of America’s Young Botanist Award and several others have received competitive grants from the society to do research in the field. In addition, Martine himself was one of only two faculty in the world to receive the society’s Charles Edwin Bessey Teaching Award last year.
Dr. Deborah Altamirano: Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Faculty Service

- This is Altamirano’s second Chancellor’s Award. Her first was awarded for excellence in teaching in 2006.
- In addition to holding a regular, full-time teaching load, the associate professor of anthropology serves as chair of her department; interim coordinator of the Latin American studies program; co-adviser of the Model Organization of American States; member of both the Faculty Senate and the Writing Across the Curriculum Committee; and adviser to Sigma Lambda Upsilon — a Latina sorority — and the Anthropology Club. She also recently co-chaired the search committee for the provost.
Dr. Jean Ouédraogo: Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Scholarship and Creative Activities

- This is the second Chancellor’s Award for Ouédraogo, who received one for internationalization in 2005 because of his work organizing and executing a short-term cultural and linguistic immersion program at Université des Antilles et de la Guyane, Martinique.

- Ouédraogo has produced a significant amount of scholarly work since he arrived on campus in 2000. Now a professor and chair of foreign languages and literature he has written and published five book chapters, two books, 11 encyclopedia chapters and a book review in addition to editing a collective work and presenting at numerous professional meetings. He did all of this while carrying a full-time teaching load, serving on a number of college-wide committees and organizing conferences, film showings, poetry readings and other events.
Dr. Jean Ouédraogo: Chancellor’s Award for Internationalization

- His program to bring Francophone African High School students to Plattsburgh supports the Chancellor’s Strategic Plan for internationalization.
Other Recognitions

• Sandra Latourelle, Biology, is the first recipient of the Four-Year College and University Section Biology Teaching Award from 2010 National Association of Biology Teachers.

• Sandy has been hired as a FT lecturer effective Fall 2011. Congratulations!

The “Internet Class” of 2015

• Beloit College Mindset List is “a catalog of the rapidly changing worldview of each new generation.”
• 75 item list of what has changed in the world.
• Avoids “hardening of the references” for faculty.

• This year’s entering class of 2015 were mostly born in 1993, just as the internet took everyone onto the information highway.
The List...

- Amazon has always existed.
- Refer to LBJ and they think LeBron James.
- Life has always been like a box of chocolates.
- “Yadda, yadda, yadda” has always been handy to make long stories short.
- We have never asked and they have never had to tell.
- “Been, there, done that, gotten the T-shirt.”
- “PC” means personal computer, not Political Correctness.
Reminders

• New faculty orientation at 1:00 in Ward Hall 110.

• Welcome back and watch out for Irene....
